Ruth Ellen Boswell

Becomes Bride Of

James Travis Vann

Miss Ruth Ellen Boswell, daughter of Mrs. John Monroe Boswell and the late Mrs. Boswell, and James Travis Vann, son of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Vann, were united in marriage at eight o'clock Friday evening, June 30, in the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. James H. Miller and Mr. Miller.

The Reverend Elbert O'Steen, pastor of the Garrett Memorial Baptist church officiated at the double ring ceremony before an improvised altar of white gladioli and greenery, in the presence of the immediate families and close friends.

The bride was becomingly attired in afternoon dress of white nylon organza over white taffeta, fashioned skirt. She wore a bandeau of white brocade ribbon in her hair and carried a colonial bouquet of white carnations.

Miss Wilma Boswell, was her sister's maid of honor and only attendant. She wore a cocoa brown and aqua dress with aqua carnation corsage and a bandeau of carnations in her hair.

William Holt of this city served the bridegroom as best man.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held. The brides table was covered with a white grass linen cloth and was centered with a cut glass bowl of blue hydrangeas and double pink Althea, flanked by lighted tapers. Mrs. Lewis Wylie of Longview, sister of the bridegroom, served the wedding cake encircled with gardenias, and Miss Gwen Deaton cousin of the bride presided at the punch bowl, which was also encircled with gardenias.

After a wedding trip to Galveston, Texas, the couple will be at home at 308 South Pine.

Among out of town guests were: Mrs. Claude Vann and children, Sonja and Larry of McNab; Miss Belva Langston of Prescott; Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Wylie of Longview, Tex.; Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Vann of Spring Hill; Arthur Ector of Longview; Mr. and Mrs. Emiel Larson, Miss Gwen Deaton and Mrs. Walter Harris and son Gary, of Texarkana.

Woodchopping Artist Is to Retire

Philadelphia — An Australian who made wood chopping such an art and three kings commanded performances is retiring at the age of 63 — and going home.

Peter McLaren was called to entertain kings, but colleges and universities hired him as the scientist of the axe.

The Melbourne-born king of the wood choppers became world champion in contests at Melbourne and Perth in 1905. He last participated in Australia's annual world championship axe swinging contests in 1910. Later, he became such an undisputed master that he gave challengers a 50 per cent time bonus. In thousands of contests he was defeated on that basis but three times, McLaren has never been beaten in the United States.

In 1908 his fame was so widely spread that Kaiser Wilhelm of Germany wanted a performance in Berlin. Three years later McLaren chopped wood at the behest of King Edward VII of England, and later made a command appearance before King George V.

Cornell and Yale universities and Pennsylvania and Michigan State colleges engaged him as a forestry instructor. Yale's famed coach of championship swimming teams, Bob Kiputh, had McLaren teach his swimmers the use of the axe to harden their bodies.

McLaren has been a wonder in the world of athletics for nearly 30 years, since he carried his vigorous activity beyond his 40th year. He annually appeared in about 500 contests up to last year barnstorming the United States and Europe.

DOROTHY DIX Keep Wrong Secret

...It is the general belief that women cannot keep a secret.

This is an error. There are, at least, two secrets that wild horses couldn't drag out of the greatest feminine babbler, and these are her age and how she caught her husband.

There are points at which even the most glib of the conversational sex stop short, and so far as her friends and acquaintances know from her, every woman stays a perpetual 39 or 40, and her husband used cave-man stuff in dragging her to the altar.

If she has a few extra birthdays thrown in she doesn't mention them, nor does she reveal the arts and wiles by which she convinced some unsuspecting man that she was the ideal for which he had been seeking all his life and that it would break his heart if he didn't get her.

Oh, yes, women can keep a secret. No doubt about that. The trouble with them is not that they tell too much, but that they tell the wrong things. They tell the things that make their tongues double-edged swords that slay them.

No wife, for instance, should ever tell how she manages her husband. That is a secret that the rack and thumb screws should not force from her unwilling lips. To tell it is to reveal her technique and make it worthless. Every woman knows that whether her marriage is a perpetual scorn or a peace conference, and whether she gets what she wants or not depends not upon her husband's virtues but upon the skill with which she handles his faults and weaknesses.

Learns How To Be Boss So if a wife finds out that the way to be boss is to make a parade of husband being the head of the house; if she discovers that the safe time to tell bad news and ask for money is after husband is replete with a good meal and at peace with the world and that the painless way of extracting a new gown is by telling him that people expect his wife to be well dressed; why that is her own trade secret and she is a fool to give it away.

The only person a wife should ever tell about her husband's faults is her divorce lawyer. As long as she lives with a man and eats his bread she is bound by every consideration of decency and good taste and common sense to keep silent about his faults.

Nor should any wife tell her husband about her family's criticism of him and that Mother says he should do this and Father says he should do that. The reason that most husbands hate their in-laws is because their wives are always relaying all the unpleasant things their families say about them.

No, should any wife tell her husband about her family's criticism of him and that Mother says he should do this and Father says he should do that. The reason that most husbands hate their in-laws is because their wives are always relaying all the unpleasant things their families say about them.

Here Is the Data on U. S. Draft Law

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, June 29 —(P)— This is an ABC on the new draft act—the selective service act—which congress okayed this week. President Truman will sign it into law. It will remain law until July 9, 1951. It is the same draft law which has been in effect since 1948, except for a couple of changes, only one of which need be mentioned here. The new law means:

1. Every youth must register with his local draft board, or a place designated by it, within five days after reaching his 18th birthday. But he can't be drafted until he's 19.

2. Every youth between 19 and 26—and all between those ages must be registered—can be drafted into the armed forces for 21 months' service, unless deferred or exempted for one reason or another.

Actually, although this draft law has been on the books since 1948, no one has been drafted in the past 18 months. Why? Because enough youths have voluntarily enlisted to make drafting others unnecessary. Enlistments are running about 34,000 a month.

Some will be exempted from the draft because they are:

1. Ministers and students studying for the ministry.

2. Physically, mentally, and morally unfit.

3. Aliens who have not declared themselves interested in becoming citizens.

4. State governors or others elected by the people of an entire state; members of congress and state legislatures; state and federal judges.

5. Sole surviving sons of families with lost one or more members due to service in the armed forces.

6. Conscientious objectors who say, because of their religious beliefs, they can't perform any kind of military service, combat or non-combat. They will have to prove this to the draft board's satisfaction.

7. Youths now in the armed forces. Since they're already in military service, they can't very well be drafted for military service.

8. War veterans who served in the armed forces at least 90 days between Dec. 7, 1941 and Sept. 12, 1945.

9. Service veterans who served 12 months between Sept. 16, 1940 and June 24, 1948, when this draft law first went into effect.

In addition, anyone reaching 26 is exempt from the draft since only those under 26 can be drafted under the law.

There are other youths who can get deferment from induction into the armed forces for various reasons.

(Under the law an exempt person can't be drafted. But a deferred person is one who is kept out of the draft only for the period of such deferment.)

Deferments—

1. Conscientious objectors whose conscience won't let them fight although they're willing to do non-combat duty in the armed forces.

2. Youths who are in important farm work or some occupation considered necessary to the national health, safety or interest and can't be replaced.

3. Youths living with a wife or child or youths whose drafting would mean a real hardship for someone dependent upon them.

4. Members of a reserve outfit, like the national guard or the officers' reserve. But — and this was the only important change made by the new law — the President can call them into active service anytime he thinks they're needed. Also, to get deferment because you're in the national guard, you must have been in it.

let her chuck it in the garbage can and say nothing about it. Thereby shall she save a family row over the waste of money and sugar and eggs. Husbands take their wives at their own valuation and if a woman only blows her trumpet loudly enough her husband will be convinced that he has married a paragon of her sex.

All of which boils down to saying that the secret that every woman should keep is the thing she should not tell.

since before June 24, 1948. Which means:

You can't duck the draft, if you're needed, by running to join the national guard now.

6. College students in advanced courses in the reserve officers training corps. Each such case will be judged on its merits. A student just beginning ROTC training couldn't escape the draft simply by being in ROTC.

What of a youth who wants to finish his schooling? The board will defer a youth in high school or college until he has completed a year of school in the year in which he otherwise would have been drafted. This is not really a deferment but only a postponement.
